

Happy Holly-days!

<http://www.robinsweb.com/cookies/cookie-recipes.html>

This is a great site with complete instructions for hosting your own Christmas cookie exchange. You will find lots of recipes, photos and even a sample invitation.

<http://www.victoriana.com/christmas/default.htm>

Interested about historical holidays? Visit this page and become a guest at a Victorian Christmas. Learn how Christmas ornaments were made, what was served for Christmas dinner, and what gifts children hoped to receive under the tree.

<http://www.theholidayspot.com/christmas/>

This site is a wealth of information about the holidays. From learning how to create crafts, to recipes and Christmas carols.

<http://www.merrychristmas.com>

A site featuring a history of different Christmas traditions, recipes, and greetings. Also here you can read the famous "Yes Virginia there is a Santa Claus" newspaper story.

<http://www.christmas.com/worldview>

At this great site, you can learn about different Christmas customs from around the world by clicking on any country in the map. You can also learn how to say Merry Christmas in many languages. There also is a very informative section to learn about the history of many holiday symbols, such as ivy, laurel and mistletoe.

<http://www.chebucto.ns.ca/~ai251/xcarol.html>

This is a major site including the words to just about every Christmas carol from White Christmas to Grandma Got Run Over By a Reindeer.

http://www.bhg.com/bhg/category.jhtml?categoryid=/templatedata/bhg/category/data/sc_1393.xml

This site from Better Homes and Gardens Magazine features many cute ideas for crating holiday crafts. Learn how a little fabric paint and a sponge can turn your ordinary bed sheets into a cute candy cane print and form an ivy table centerpiece in minutes